

01/25/2012

11:00 am - 12:00 pm

Prerequisite: None

LL010 A Community Centered Solution

Chris Gibbs, AIA, Principal, HGA

Session Description:

The Payne Maryland Community Center is a partnership of public and private organizations whose hope and commitment it is to make a better neighborhood where families and individuals can grow and prosper in every way. As a focal point of the neighborhood and a service provider, the new facility will be home to a variety of organizations including; Arlington Heights Library, Arlington Recreation Center, Arlington Hills Church, the YMCA and numerous educational entities. As these multiple partners come together in an urban Saint Paul, Minnesota park, the unique outcome will be a shared facility that creates much more meaningful impact than any one of them could have created on their own.

Learning Objectives:

1.) Explore the challenges of a true public private partnership. 2.) Learn how each individual organization involved in this project got more for less. 3.) Learn how different educational agenda can be delivered in one shared facility. 4.) Discuss the challenges of a developing a significant new project on an existing urban site.

Room: Learning Lounge

AIA Continuing Education: 1 LU/HSW